REHEARING DENIED

Relator, Keith Barrow, seeks supervisory review of a writ application that he previously filed in this Court in State of Louisiana v. Barrow, 26-KH-478, on October 8, 2026. He attaches a letter to the pending writ application that explains he would like the pending writ application to be filed in place of the previous writ application due to his counsel's "errors of misprint of several words." As noted by relator, the current writ application is almost "word for word" similar to the writ application filed in 26-KH-478.

On October 14, 2026, this Court denied the writ application filed in Case No. 26-KH-478, finding that "[r]elator's writ application is time-barred and successive," and also "successive and repetitive under La. C.Cr.P. art. 930.4." See

State of Louisiana v. Barrow, 26-KH-478 (La. App. 5 Cir. 10/14/26) (unpublished writ disposition).

As such, the pending writ application filed on October 26, 2026 is essentially, verbatim, an application for rehearing of the writ application that relator previously filed and this Court previously denied. Louisiana's Uniform Rules–Courts of Appeal, Rules 4-9 and 2-18.7, do not permit rehearing from a writ denial.[1]

Therefore, given the procedural deficiencies of this application and in accordance with the Uniform Rules–Courts of Appeal, Rule 4-9 and Rule 2-18.7, this request for rehearing is denied.

Gretna, Louisiana, this 10th day of November, 2026.
